THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 25.

HOME.—One is forever hearing of men and women who go away from home to have a good time; whereas, the proper place for good times is right in the home. The ways of having them are as many as the sands of the sea; but there is one reliable method for starting a "time," and that is to do something to please another member of the family rather than yourself. A little exhibition of unselfish affection, a favor extended, a reasonable indulgence granted, may start a train of events which will brighten a whole day and make an evening merry. It involves less trouble and far more fun than a picnic.

Young people naturally desire the respect of their acquaintances; so do the middle-aged and the old. This desire is commendable. But let all, young or old, especially the young, know assuredly that they have no right to ask or expect the respect of others till they learn to respect themselves; and this self-respect they can never attain so long as they willfully do wrong. No one can properly respect himself while he continues to do that which he knows to be wrong. No one with a high degree of self-respect will do a little, low or mean thing. He is above it. He cannot undignify himself to get down to it. This applies to profane and vulgar language as well as to mean acts.

The fly which disturbs the sheep so much during the warm weather by endeavoring to lay its eggs near their nose is can be pretty effectually headed off by smearing the nose of the sheep with pine tar. Any wounds also will be the better for a little tar; but in the latter case there should be no less than four or five parts of tar mixed with one of tallow; otherwise there is danger of the stickiness of the tar stopping the discharge of matter.

THE banana is mentioned by Dr. B. W. Richardson as one of the best of foods. It may almost be looked upon as condensed milk, its composition being seventy-four per cent. water, twenty per cent. flesh, five per cent. fat, and seven-tenths per cent. mineral; while milk contains eighty-six per cent. water, nine per cent. fat, four per cent. flesh-formers, and seven-tenths per cent. mineral.
